MUTASIR-THE ANNUAL YOUTH CONFERENCE

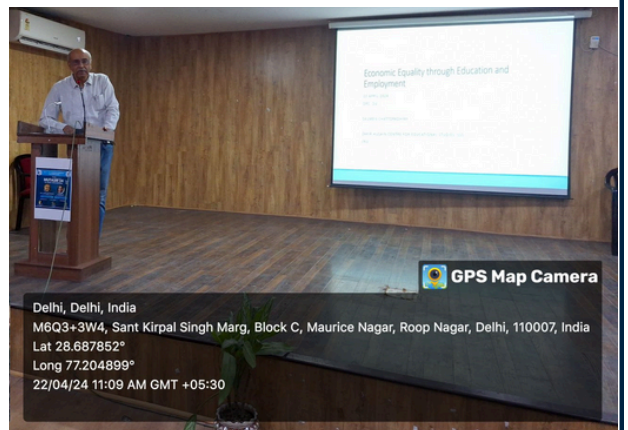

The energy escalated with the commencement of Mutasir, the annual youth conference, featuring Professor Chattopadhyay and Professor Das as distinguished speakers. Their lectures not only captivated the audience but also sparked thought-provoking discussions on pressing economic issues.

Following the engaging talks, a stimulating discussion session allowed students to interact with the speakers, further enriching their understanding of the topics discussed.

Professor Chattopadhyay delved into "The New Normal: Economic Equality through Education and Employment,"

This concept emphasizes the importance of accessible, high-quality education as a foundation for economic empowerment, equipping individuals with the skills necessary for the modern job market. It also highlights the role of equitable employment practices, such as fair wages, and opportunities for career advancement, in reducing income disparities.

Professor Das explored "Direction of Fiscal Policy in Employment Generation."

Discussing the direction of fiscal policy in employment generation is crucial because it addresses some of the most pressing economic and social challenges of our time. Unemployment and underemployment can lead to widespread economic hardship, social instability, and inequality. By understanding and debating fiscal policies aimed at job creation, policymakers can develop more effective strategies to boost employment, stimulate economic growth, and ensure a fair distribution of wealth.

Their insightful presentations sparked immense curiosity among the students, setting the stage for an intellectually stimulating day.

The Delayed 2021 Census

- By Dhruvika Sapra

A delayed census impacts government schemes and programmes, leads to unreliable estimates from other surveys on consumption, health, and employment, sectors which depend on census data to determine policy and welfare schemes. Authorities have to resort to using this data to determine aid eligibility and more than 100 million people are likely to be excluded from the government's welfare programmes.

The Offline Tolls

- By Mahita Gupta

As a developing country, India has been working towards economic growth and digitalisation. However, the recent spate of internet shutdowns in the country is at odds with this progressive stance. With the internet dependency growing year by year, given upcoming new e-trading and e-commerce platforms, increasing use of digital payments and the escalating share of the internet economy in the GDP, even short internet shutdowns can have far-reaching ramifications on a country's economy.
